Pinelake H<sup>3</sup> Hash #1137 – March 7, 2009
Hared by Little Willy and Grape Nuts
Start: W.D. Thompson Park on Mason Mill

Spring has sprung in Georgia, and our faithful Pinelake hashers took full advantage of the wonderful weather by showing up for a great trail with a little bit of everything.

The hounds met up in W.D. Thompson Park, a quaint little neighborhood park on the northeast side of town. Our HashCash mistress, Star Whore, had neglected to bring the cash part of HashCash, so there was some fumbling for proper change, but it all worked out.

No virgins were dragged along, so after a quick chalk talk, Grape Nuts headed out to lay us a “live” trail. The actual “live-ness” if trail was somewhat disputable. Ten minutes later (when did we switch to 10 minutes, by the way?) the pack set off. Flour led us down into the creek bed that links up with a fork of Peachtree Creek, and there were no complaints about a little water when the weather was so nice. The front runners led us off to the right, only to discover a CB17, much to the chagrin of all. We turned around and went the other direction, worked a few more checks, and hiked up a nice little girl scout path to the top of a hill. The hounds were again frustrated by a YBF at the top.

Some hounds backtracked to the last check, others just cut straight down hill, where they found trail that led to the ruins of the old Mason Mill, in Emory's Lullwater Park. Trail continued through the park, through the creek into the VA hospital parking lot, and under Clairmont Road. We traipsed through an apartment complex, which is normally full of Emory co-eds sunning by the pool. Various members of the Mag7 were disappointed when Lots of Practice informed them that Emory was on Spring Break and the co-eds were sunning in Mexico instead.

After a bit of train tracks and another park, the hounds found themselves at a Turkey/Eagle split. The old timers took the Eagle, the young and the restless (and lazy) took the Turkey trail. Both ended up in the Medlock Park neighborhood, home of many hashers – Spread Eagle, Tail Gunner, Lots of Practice, Cheetah, and, of course, Little Willy. We knew we couldn't be far from the end, but somehow our hares managed to loop us all over the neighborhood before giving us the satisfaction of a large “BN” in the middle of the road.

Eventually, all the hounds made it to the On-In, where we sipped the sweet nectar of the Hash Gods and munched on orange stuffs, supplemented with Girl Scout cookies. Tail Gunner appeared, though no one had seen him at the start. Though he lives in the neighborhood and had emailed Little Willy promising punctuality, he still managed to arrive late. Typical.

Since our JMs were absent, Star Whore led circle. Down-downs were given to our Front-Running couple, Spermier and Slippery When Wet. Our hares and DFL, Shiggy Pits, had their turn too. They were followed by a rousing Old Timer Story from Rat's Ass and Tail Gunner. Special presents (pins to add to bibs!) were given to various hounds for their shenanigans on trail. Rule 6 infractions included Lots of Practice checking her mail on trail (hey, it's not her fault trail went right by her house!) and WiseCracker, Cheese Nips and House of Boobs for being gone-too-long. Many hashers had a tough time coming up with down-down songs, so they got to join in the fun. Adorable hash spawn, Ink Spot, had a birthday (lemonade) down-down for making it through three years of putting up with Squid Dick and Size Doesn't Matter. The rest of the down-down beer was downed and Star Whore closed circle. The pack headed over to the On-After at Los Loros for strong margaritas and delicious Mexican treats.

ON-ON! Your faithful scribe, Lots of Practice
